

CHRISTMAS SAVERS TO CUT $33,500 "MELON"

$5,000 IS READY FOR KIDNAPERS OF GIRL, AGED 6

Father of Tennessee Girl Believes She Is In New York

HAS HEDED ALL INSTRUCTIONS

Police Not Called In, But U. S. Agents Are Investigating

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—The whereabouts of 6-year-old Dorothy Ann Distelhurst, is still a mystery today, but her father clings to his belief that the child is somewhere in New York.

Ready to pay $5,000 ransom, the father, Alfred E. Distelhurst, is waiting to hear from the supposed kidnapers who, he believes, stole the girl away while she was on her way to kindergarten in Nashville, Tenn., on Sept. 19.

Follows Instructions

Since he arrived in New York last Wednesday, Distelhurst has followed carefully the instructions given in a letter he received a month ago, the last of three communications from the supposed kidnapers. He disclosed last night that the second letter he received had instructed him to come to New York to await contact with the kidnapers. Instead he sent a friend, but nothing was heard from the kidnapers of the letter.

He said he received the third letter on Oct. 12, but postponed coming to New York for reasons he did not make known. Last Wednesday he came here from Nashville, registered at a hotel and inserted an advertisement in a newspaper which read:

"Dorothy come home; father in New York at same place, room 1736. Please write."

Although he has heard nothing, he is convinced, he said, the child is in New York and he intends to make her home "until something happens one way or another."

Issues Statement

Last night he issued the following statement:

To whom it may concern: I follow instructions implicitly and am waiting contact. If further instructions are necessary I can be reached safely at designated place."

New York police have not been called into the case, but department of justice authorities in Washington said they are investigating the child's disappearance. They said, however, they have received no definite information the child was kidnapped.

Pupils Return As 4 Center Township Schools Open Doors

Four out of five Center township schools, closed since the end of the last term in the spring, reopened Monday, as the result of the approval by voters at the election last week of a 4.7 mill levy for school purposes. Union school is the one in the group that remains closed.

Elizabeth Freeman is teacher at Battle Ridge school, Grace Crook at Chandler school, A. E. Pollock, Frances; Luther Wartall at Mt. Hope school. Application for state aid for these schools has been filed at Columbus.

Homecoming Queen Unseated, Then Regains O.S.U. Throne

Campus Turmoil Ended, And All's Set For Michigan Game

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, Nov. 13.—Declared unseated as Ohio State university homecoming queen because of questionable balloting, Mary Alma Otterheim of Coldwater, O., today was re-elected to the throne by proclamation of the student senate president.

When the homecoming queen election was thrown into turmoil yesterday with the declaration that there had been plural balloting, pretty Mary Alma was unseated by the student court.

Into the breach stepped Richard Vance of Columbus, president of the student senate. In his proclamation he declared that an emergency existed; that none of the half-dozen homecoming queen candidates were involved in the voiding of the election of Miss Oppenheim, and that "for that and other reasons already familiar to the student body at Ohio State university, I do hereby declare that Mary Alma Oppenheim shall be homecoming queen."

The young lady from Coldwater will reign during ceremonies incident to the Ohio State-Michigan game Saturday.

Vance's proclamation said the five girls who opposed Miss Oppenheim for election would comprise her court: Gladys Otey, Frances Hamilton and Betty Malloy of Columbus, Mabelle Lathrop of Sylva, O., and Jeannette Stevenson of Pittsburgh, Pa.

"All homecoming procedures shall progress as previously planned," he said. The proclamation was issued with the "advice and consent of Charles Ebersold, chairman of homecoming activities."

Ohio State's beauty queen elections have been marked by squabbles in many previous years. About six or seven years ago, male students in the wrangling that accompanied the competition for queen, banded together and elected "Maudine Ormond."

When the time for crowning the queen came, "Maudine" was brought out, and to the consternation of many a co-ed, proved to be a very ably-bodied cow.

VODREY FILES DEPOSIT OF $1,100 WITH VOTE UNIT

Election Board Is Given His Certificate of Deposit

RECOUNT REQUEST SOON IS LIKELY

Tabulation Questioned In Short Term Commissioner Race

Oliver C. Vodrey of East Liverpool, defeated by Frank Fisher of St. Clair township in the short term county commissioner race at the recent election, today filed a certificate of deposit amounting to $1,100 with Clerk John W. Moore of the Columbiana county board of elections preparatory to what will probably be a request for a recount.

The amount of the certificate of deposit is based, in this instance, on $10 for each of the county's 110 precincts.

May Stop at Any Point

However, if the recount is made, it is permissible for the candidate asking the recount to stop the tabulation at any point. However, in the event he had asked for a recount in, for instance, five precincts, he could not add to that number once the recount got under way, according to election board officials.

Although his certificate of deposit was filed as a preliminary measure, Vodrey has not made a formal request, as yet, election board representatives said. If and when he does a five-day notice likely will follow in deference to the opposing candidate.

Fisher, a Democrat, in the election board's official count, was given a total of 10,720 to 10,656 for Vodrey, a Republican.

Vodrey made it clear today that he had no suspicion of fraud in connection with the counting of the ballots. He merely is considering the possibility of clerical errors, he said.

Ex-Russian Looms as Power Behind Drive By Germany to Nazi-fy Central Europe

Dr. Rosenberg Originates Plan To Unify Teutons

(By International News Service)
BERLIN.—Back of the Nazi penetration of the countries bordering Germany looms the silent but powerful figure of Dr. Alfred Rosenberg, member of Reichsfuehrer Hitler's "brain trust," who points prophetically to the day when the Swastika banner will wave over 100,000,000 Aryan Teutons from the Baltic to the Mediterranean.

From his sumptuous headquarters in the German foreign office on famous Wilhelmstrasse in this city, Dr. Rosenberg supervises the outpouring of propaganda which rivals that of the Communist International.

Dreamed of Empire

Back in 1923, after he had joined up with Hitler and his new-born Nazi movement, Rosenberg dreamed a great dream. He pictured for the corporal-house painter a German Third Reich that would stretch across central Europe and include Holland, Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Austria, Switzerland, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria, Latvia, Lithuania, Estonia, Denmark, and most of Poland and Soviet Ukraine. Besides this astounding continental Nazi empire, the Scandinavian peninsula and Finland were to be included as "blood brothers."

Hitler incorporated this dream of expansion into his Brown Shirt platform, and since his rise to power, much of Germany's foreign squabbles have been repercussions

BIG GAIN IS SEEN IN TOTAL

Yule Fund for 1934 to Show Increase of 20 Per Cent

Christmas of 1934 ought to be somewhere around 20 per cent happier than last year's was for a large number of people in Salem and vicinity.

The percentage represents the approximate gain in the amount of Christmas savings funds as reported today by three financial institutions here—The First National bank, the Farmers National bank and the Home Savings and Loan Co.

In each case, officers of the various institutions reported decisive increases in the Yule savings.

The total will reach approximately $33,500.

Checks to the many hundreds of depositors will be placed in the mails sometime during the first week of December.

FERA Schools For Rural Residents To Be Organized

At a meeting of a council called by the Columbiana County Farm bureau at Lisbon, Nov. 7, plans were discussed for the establishment of FERA schools for adult education for the rural residents of Columbiana county.

Arrange Plans

Mrs. Lukens of Portage county and Stanley Howard of Salem were present at the meeting to assist in arranging plans. Mrs. Lukens is lady director-at-large of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation for north-east Ohio.

She informed the council that FERA funds are available for financing rural adult classes which will probably be located at four or five points in the county, so arranged as to be accessible to residents in the various sections.

Each group is expected to meet regularly during the winter months one evening a week for a three-hour period. Half the period is to be devoted to the study of the history, principles and practices of cooperation; and the other half, to rural recreation.

No Enrollment Fee

There will be no charge for enrollment and the courses are open to anyone more than 16 years of age. Teachers are to be secured to conduct the classes on a plan similar to those already in operation in some of the cities.

Charles E. Crawford of Damascus was elected permanent chairman of the council. Mr. Crawford expects to communicate with leaders in the various communities at once, and it is the hope of the council that classes may be established before the close of the year.

Will Rogers, an old pot hound, was voted the best hunting dog in the state and he took another prize for the finest looking dog. So my regards to the champion of South Carolina.

There ain't nothing better than to ride up on a little hill at night and stop and hear 'em running. You don't need to see 'em, you know who is ahead; who's running second and third and just how close they are to old man fox.

OPEN CAMPAIGN FOR RED CROSS

Workers Start Out Today Seeking Roll Call Support

Workers seeking cooperation of the residents of Salem for the annual American Red Cross roll call swung into action today, seeking the support of every citizen in the campaign for the betterment of humanity.

Harry L. Hopkins, administrator of the federal relief, states that the need in every community for a private welfare fund is greater than at any time in the past. Very often the individual citizen confuses emergency relief for the individual with general community welfare work. This is unfortunate, he declares, for the wider range of welfare work includes many services definitely distinct from the furnishing of emergency relief to those without jobs, and are definitely necessary.

"Nothing could be farther from the truth than the impression that prevails with many citizens that the government is caring for all phases of necessary welfare. The government funds can not meet the urgent need for services designed to prevent delinquencies among young people whose welfare is greatly affected by the depression."

Football Players Are Still Firemen

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 13.—There were smiles four years ago when George Goff, chief of the fire department filed the roster with Oklahoma City university football players.

He explained he was giving the students jobs because he figured they would make better firemen. As football players they smothered the burning ambitions of such teams as the University of Oklahoma and Oklahoma A. & M.

Grid fans figured that when one crop of athletes was graduated another would take over the hook and ladder business on the city payroll.

They were wrong.

Today there are 37 former Oklahoma City university players still with the department, of which 23 played with the 1930-31 "wonder team."

Plane Crash Fatal To 3 Barnstormers

(By Associated Press)
RITZVILLE, Wash., Nov. 13.—Three men died in the blazing wreckage of an airplane which crashed near here yesterday. Authorities said there were indications the victims were barnstormers.

Prosecutor E. W. Schwellenbach of Grant county said he learned the three, Earl and "Doc" Archers, brothers, and Art Brunin, had been at Neppel, nearby, this afternoon. The Archers purchased the plane recently and planned to fly it to their home at Ashland, Ky.

A. P. Morris was elected worshipful master of Salem city lodge No. 698, E. & A. M. at a meeting Monday night in the Masonic temple. H. C. Heribert was named senior warden and J. H. Giffin, junior warden. Installation ceremonies will be held at the next meeting, Dec. 10.

Other officers elected last night include V. R. McBane, treasurer, R. R. Woods, secretary; C. I. Beeler, senior deacon; C. V. Rakestraw, junior deacon; J. H. Campbell, tyler; and J. E. Britt, trustee.

Robbery at Akron

AKRON, Nov. 13.—Gunnmen locked the cashier and four other employees of the Sumner Creamery Co. in a cooler and escaped with $3,500 in scrip and cash.

C. C. Page, cashier, and those imprisoned with him smashed the cooler door a few minutes after the robbers made their escape.

Ah ha! Take that—and that—you curs!

That favorite film star (male) may be a hero to you and you and you, but to Peggy Fears, who is shown here, a good many of these Beau Brummels of Hollywood are just "pains in the neck."

Yes, indeed, quite a few of these handsome Romeos and stalwart he-men of the silver screen are smarting under a searing verbal attack administered by Miss Fears and a number of other filmland beauties as well.

The gals who are doing the complaining declare that the victims of their verbal shafts are downright impolite when they're not acting.

Miss Fears, joined in her criticism by Rochelle Hudson, June Knight and Gertrude Michael, say the movie heroes are the kind who would "slam a door in my face."

CONTROLLER OF INFLATION

Appointment of Marriner C. Eccles to governorship of the federal reserve board is believed to be more important than previous appointments to the same post have been. Mr. Eccles is not a run-of-the-mine appointee. The leadership of the federal reserve board in these times, furthermore, is a post of great power and influence—or could be.

The outstanding thing about Mr. Eccles is his new deal partnership. He abandoned the Republican party in 1932 because he disagreed with its conservative position. He arrived at his new deal philosophies independently. He is among the distinguished few who were new dealers before they were Democrats.

What he will do in his new job is as uncertain as the answer to the question of what should be done. Naturally, he will be a center of rumor. Already it is being said that Marriner Eccles will be used by President Roosevelt to unify the United States banking system. In this sense, unification means elimination of banks outside the federal reserve system and, also, elimination of the federal reserve system's last vestiges of independence from the federal government.

Unification of the banking system, however, is a large order. It is one of the things which may come about under President Roosevelt's administration. But it is an eventual project, less worth consideration now than the immediate project which all officials on the fiscal side of government must undertake—control of credit inflation. There is good reason to think of Marriner Eccles in connection with this responsibility. He will be governor of the federal reserve board, which means he will be controller of inflation for the United States. Good luck, Mr. Eccles.

IN THE COMMERCIAL FIELD

A prospectus of legislative subjects in the new congress includes attempts to get action on commercial airships constructed with appropriations from public works funds. Two ships of the Zeppelin type are being considered for transatlantic service. A smaller ship for South American service will be sought. The first cost is estimated at $17,000,000.

The transfer of emphasis on airships from their military possibilities to commercial possibilities is due largely to experience with such ships since the World war. France, Italy, Great Britain and the United States have made costly experiments with airships for military purposes. The United States is the only country which has been willing to continue experiments, and its faith has been greatly diminished from its original proportions.

Germany, on the other hand, has discovered apparent possibilities in airships by concentrating on commercial use. If lighter-than-air craft become permanent fixtures in air transportation, Dr. Hugo Eckener will be entitled to most of the credit. He has given to Germany undisputed leadership with his successful operation of the Graf Zeppelin, soon to be replaced by a larger ship.

The United States, which has drawn heavily on German experience in construction of airships, still is interested in their commercial possibilities, despite discouraging experience in the military field. It remains to be seen, of course, whether or not Germany would have gained its position of leadership without Dr. Eckener, whose skill in managing the Graf Zeppelin is at least as important as the ship itself. Perhaps, with better manpower, the United States would not be skeptical of airships. By all means this is one of the things to be considered when the advisability of spending more public money on airships comes up for consideration in the new congress.

THE STARS SAY

For Wednesday, November 14

The planetary configurations bearing rule on the affairs of this day are said to be indicative of difficulty, frustration, futility and disappointment. This is spite of earnest application, persistency and attendance. There are omens of obstructions, crystallized conditions and also craft, secret enmities andlander, rebuffs and reversals to be coped with.

Those whose birthday it is may prime themselves for a year calling for perseverance, patience, indomitable "will to win" and also alertness in both business and private affairs.

A child born on this day may be industrious, persistent, studious, plodding and prone to depression and discouragement. It may have much in the way of reversal and rebuffs to contend with in life, although sudden changes also result profitably.

Notable nativity: H. C. Barnabee, comedian.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Perhaps New York's best known florist is the flaming red-haired lady, Irene Hayes, who came out of one of those Kansas Sassafras Corners a dozen years ago, wide eyed with prairie wonder and an idea. Today on a Park avenue corner she is a dominating figure of her trade. Her greatest success has been achieved during the depression. She seized upon psychological idea when most people were in no mood or purse for life's luxuries. She insisted fresh flowers to brighten the busy corners was the world's very great need. How could a man be entirely despondent with a matron in his lap or a lady melancholy with a violet corsage? Her newest customers were among Wall Streeters untrussed by the market. She devised new moderately priced pretty-pretties in her battle of roses daily.

Many established florists were hanging up the shutters while she was adding gaudy little motor wagons to deliver her wares. And putting on more clerks. She not only ballooned her own business but that of her fellows and is largely responsible for New York buying almost as many flowers as during tataras days.

There are few situations so fast as that of a layman at a first night performance waiting the entrance of his actress wife in her role. At the Globe one night some years ago there was such a situation. When the wife came running down a short flight of steps she tripped and stumbled into a half fall. The husband slumped in his seat in dead faint.

Everybody who sees Vincent Astor the first time is surprised by his physique. He has the build of a rugged and bronzed lumber jack, without an excess pound. His voice is deep, booming. While much of his time is spent yachting, he likes to attend parties on land and is almost invariably enthusiastic and frolicsome. He seems to have inside information on theatrical first nights for rarely is he present save at pronounced hits. One of his prized possessions is a cigarette lighter that never failed to light.

Bernard Baruch is one of the town's sundown walkers, a tall, stately and gray-haired figure in the vespertine hour flow. Since he left the money marts downtown to write his memoirs in a midtown office building he walks almost 30 blocks daily to his private red-bricked dwelling in the avenue's 1090's.

Dramatic critics go into a sidewalk huddle between the acts at premieres. Their conversation is usually chaff, pert and personal persiflage off the record about situations in the play or the work of players. I have on a few occasions listened off side to these impromptu gab-fests but never yet have been able to catch the probable drift of the critiques they will dash off immediately the curtain falls. The alarmer banter may be a prelude to a stern review.

But the town's champion pedestrian continues to be John H. Finley, the some 70-year-old member of the Times' editorial staff. Nothing stops his six-mile daily constitutional, no matter the wind, rain or snow. Each year on his birthday he celebrates his devotion to the art ambulatory by walking entirely around Manhattan Island. Bert Lytell, the actor, is another walker who averages five miles a day. The town's fastest walker is, of course, Herbert Bayard Swope and the most leisurely saunterer for years was the late Captain James Churchill, the restaurant man. And, of course, there's Alexander Woolcott mincing along in his mignon way.

The vitriolic ace of critics is George Jean Nathan. For two decades he has lashed out the most stinging of the reviews, lambasting the bigwig producers as well as stars and lesser players. Yet not once has he ever been sued for libel, challenged to a duel or faced a personal encounter. Ninety per cent of his opinions are adverse yet no producer would think of a first night without him down front on the aisle sitting statue like and debouching abruptly at the end of the second act, if not interested.

Bill Halligan, actor, bon vivant, globe trotter, has been laid up with what he calls the "Park avenue goof and lout disease"—a touch of gout. One of his pals dropped in as the painful foot was being lowered into a steaming cauldron. "This," said Bill, unconscious of a not-so-good pun, "would make a lobster quail!"

1934 Bad For Hay Fever Sufferers

Not very long ago I wrote about hay fever, pointing out that special injections of a prepared vaccine have proved in many cases to be the best treatment for this annoying affliction. I advised all sufferers to consult their doctors about this treatment.

Because this has been an unusually severe season for hay fever sufferers I am again writing on this subject. I do so to stress the importance of receiving treatment at the proper time. Few persons who are sensitive to certain pollens have escaped the discomforts of hay fever this year. Just why this is so is difficult to explain, but it is probably due to certain unusual climatic and atmospheric conditions.

As I have stated before, hay fever is due to a "sensitivity" to a plant, pollen or protein substance found in wearing apparel, house furnishings or food. On exposure to the sensitive substance, the sufferer complains of itching and congestion of the eyes, running nose and violent attacks of sneezing. The discomfort may be quite severe and confine the sufferer to bed.

Occasionally an attack is confused with asthma. It does resemble asthma in that the sufferer has great difficulty in breathing. Victims of hay fever, too, are often susceptible to asthma.

The hay fever victims should make every effort to determine the underlying cause of the affliction. By this I mean they should try to find out the exact substance to which they are sensitive. This is accomplished by injecting small amounts of the extracts of pollens and other suspected substances under the skin. The local reaction that follows indicates the presence or absence of sensitivity to the substance injected.

Once the offending substance is determined, relief may be obtained in most cases. Of course, the easiest method would be by change of climate during the hay fever season, but this method of escape is not available to all. But pretty definite protection is afforded by it.

Take Treatments Now
This consists of injecting an extract of the pollen, or other offending substance, in graduated doses, until "immunity" or protection against the sensitive substance is established. It is advisable to use this procedure at least a month before the expected time of the attack and it should be repeated every year. The injections must be repeated because the relief obtained is only temporary.

It is now the opinion of many specialists that more successful results would be obtained if the injections were given over a prolonged period of time. This is the so-called "perennial form" of treatment advised for severe cases of hay fever.

If you are a sufferer from hay fever consult with your physician now. Do not wait until next year when the hay fever season appears. Since many stubborn cases can be traced to complicating infections and disorders, it is wise to have a thorough physical overhauling. By doing this you will maintain good health generally, and ward off further severe attacks of hay fever.

GIRL IN THE FAMILY

BY BEATRICE BURTON

CHAPTER XXXV

her voice broke in upon her. "Susan, someone's at the door."

"I'll see who it is," she called. Through the pane of glass set in the back door she could see Anna's face as she crossed the kitchen.

Anna was smiling broadly at her. Above her wide mouth her eyes were filled with anxiety and sympathy. Where other people might have sent flowers or a note of condolence, Anna had brought the cake on a green glass cake-plate, carefully wrapped in waxed paper.

She set it on the kitchen table and then peeled her gray cotton gloves from her hands to show Susan the ring that she wore, a narrow gold wedding ring engraved with tiny orange blossoms. "Herbst married me on Tuesday," she explained. "We were married in the city office downtown. How was I married? In it I was married."

"Married in green, you'll live like green," that's what they say, you know, Anna.

Anna's big laugh filled the kitchen. "You should see me, how I live as a queen already!" she cried. "I run the creamery across the street from Herbst's house, and I milk cans. His brother's wife, used to do it, but last week she had a baby, so it is good that I have a baby."

"Susan, my house? I buy all the lamp shades last week, and new runners, and I make all new cushions. It's nice now."

"Any house of yours would be mine," said Susan without a moment's pause. "Any house, no matter how possibly ugly and ordinary its furniture might be, would be beautiful and shining with cleanliness if I had the care of it, just as the Brodericks' house always had been under her care. She had scoured the ancient tin bath tubs until they were like sheets of silver, kept the windows free from steam and dust and the crystal prisms of the chandeliers glittering like newly-fallen icicles. For eight dollars a week she had performed a miracle of housekeeping for the Brodericks, who had always found fault with her."

"The first day I have to myself I'll come to see you," Susan added. "Just now I don't like to leave the house. Mrs. Broderick and Miss Katie don't like to be here alone any more. We're giving up the house in a few days."

Susan had often read the phrase, "her mouth fell open in her astonishment," in books, and she saw now, for the first time, that it actually was an accurate description of what a mouth could do. For Anna's mouth really did fall open in amazement, and her eyes widened until they were like large round blue marbles. "No! You never go away from this house!" She shook her head in its pale green felt hat trimmed with a single pink velvet rose.

"Oh, yes, we're going, Anna. John's gone already—" and she went on with the story of the happenings in Center Street during the last two weeks.

"And Mr. Sholes? Where he gone?" Ann asked when she had finished.

"He's gone to live at Mrs. Cullen's house. In Miss Sayre's old room," Susan answered.

"What you going to do?" Anna asked next, settling herself in her old kitchen rocker. "Marry Mr. Steffen right away, I guess."

Susan shook her head. "I don't know exactly what I am going to do, Anna. I haven't thought it all out yet." As she spoke a glow of excitement ran over her. All day she had been worrying about her future, wondering just where she would go and what she would do now that it was not possible for her to go to the Cullens' without turning Allen out of his room. But now it struck her that her position had a certain advantage. Wasn't this what she had always wanted? The chance to step out into the unknown world beyond Center Street and see if she could stand on her own feet? Try her own wings? Find out what she was made of?

All at once she saw that the future just ahead of her wore the very face and features of the adventure she had always been looking for!

"I have a room to rent now in Herbst's house, myself," Anna was saying. "It was my room until Tuesday when I marry Herbst. If it was in a nice street I think I could get six, maybe seven, dollars a week for it."

She got up from her rocker. "Could I go now to speak with Mrs. Broderick before I go? I must get home early to making supper."

Anna was not in the dining room more than two or three minutes, but by the time he reappeared in the kitchen Susan was ready for her.

"Look here, Anna," she said, "some of the things in this house belonged to my father and mother, and when Mrs. Broderick sells them on Saturday a little money will be due me. How would you like it if I came down to your house to live for a while?"

On Friday morning Aunt Edna telephoned to the neighborhood photographer and asked him to take a photograph of the house while the curtains were still at the windows and the chimney still flinging its thin plume of furnace smoke into the air—while it still looked "lived in," as she said.

Susan heard her tell the man to send the photograph to her in care of a tourists' club in a Florida gulf town called Clearwater. "We're going there for the winter," she said to him in a proud globe-trotter sort of voice. "We've been to Europe twice, and we did consider California this year but Florida's so easy to get to, isn't it?"

Susan smiled to herself as she listened. She could imagine Lottie and Aunt Edna showing the picture to other women wintering down south, hoping to impress them with it and probably succeeding. No matter to what second rate hotel or boarding house they went they would undoubtedly set it up on their dresser, carrying with them always the glory of the Brodericks!

Early Friday afternoon the telephone service in the house was cut off. Not until then did Susan really give up hope that Allen would call her up. For days every time the telephone had rung she had waited with every nerve in her body tense for Aunt Edna or Lottie to call. "It's someone for you, Susan."

At five o'clock she went upstairs, put on her hat and coat and came downstairs to tell Lottie and Aunt Edna that she was going out for a breath of air. She had been indoors all week and she fairly ached to get out into the crisp keen winter air and get some exercise. At the back of her mind was the thought that she might run over to the Cullens' for a minute or two. She missed them, and she might see Allen.

"I may stop in at the Cullens' for a minute," she said, and Aunt Edna merely nodded. It was the first time in history that she did not raise some kind of objection to Susan's going there. Usually she said, "What on earth do you always want to be going there for, Susan?" or "They're good plain people and they are your relatives, of course, but they're in an entirely different walk of life."

Now she had nothing to say. If Susan preferred common people like the Cullens to people like Wallace Steffen, why, it was nobody's misfortune but her own. That was Aunt Edna's attitude. As for herself, she was going with Lottie to some old ladies' Paradise in a sunny climate where the two of them would doubtless find plenty of bridge players to help them pass the time away, the time that had always crept like a snail in the back parlor of the old house.

"Try to be back at six," he said sharply. She liked her meals, and she liked them on time or a little ahead of time. "I notice you've taken your mother's picture down from the wall, Susan. You needn't have done that. If you'd asked for it, I'd have given it to you." Her chin quivered as if Susan had hurt her feelings. They seemed to be much more sensitive than the rest of her face, as if they had a separate life of their own.

"I was afraid my father would get the picture, and I didn't want it in Mrs. Hopper's house," Susan said bluntly. She had taken it down from the wall and put it in the bottom of her trunk that morning, thinking that neither of her aunts would notice or care what had become of it.

It was dark when she reached the Cullens' and somewhere along the street was the appetizing odor of ham frying. But the white house was dark from cellar to attic and when Susan rang the doorbell there was no answer. Only the sound of the bell itself as it buzzed in the kitchen.

She went on down the street to Uncle Arthur's store. Sometimes Aunt Nell slipped out to get some forgotten item for a meal from the store, and she was probably there now taking down a jar or bottle from a shelf or asking Mr. Jennings, the butcher, to wrap up eight veal cutlets for her and to please be quick about it.

But when Susan entered the store no one was in it but Mr. Jennings himself, sitting behind the delicatessen counter, reading the evening paper.

"Mr. Cullen's been gone since four o'clock," he told Susan. "He and Mrs. Cullen went down to the commission house to see some pink grapefruit that had just come in down there. Shaddock, it's called." He cocked an eye at the clock. "They ought to be home soon. Been gone nearly two hours."

He leaned forward in his chair and picked an apple from a crate that stood on the floor near him. "How about a nice apple?" he asked, and held it out to her. "Don't you want to sit down and wait?"

was there, walking past the iron stag in the front yard and going up the stone steps.

After dinner she went upstairs and finished packing her trunk. Her books and her desk set, the six dotted muslin dresses that had been her entire wardrobe last summer, her underthings all hemmed by hands, her one evening gown, the blue flannel dress that she had worn the first time she saw Allen, the violet toilet water whose scent reminded her of the cheap little bunch of violets that he had bought her on the library steps three weeks before.

And when she had put everything in and had locked the trunk she went out into the carpetless hall and stood for a moment looking into the room that had belonged to him. In the mirror above the dresser she could see her own figure silhouetted against the light in the hall. (To Be Continued)

a Postal Money Order or YOUR PERSONAL CHECK?

Are postal money orders better than checks? Let's see. . . . To buy a money order, you must go to the post office. You must fill out an application blank for each order. A $1.00 money order costs 6 cents, and if it is for $65.00 the fee is 20 cents. Then, too, the largest money order you can buy is for $100. Money order receipts are small, confusing, easily mislaid—in which case it may take time and trouble to prove payment of a disputed bill.

Contrast this with the advantages of paying your bills "by check" . . . make them out anywhere . . . they become the best receipt . . . they give you "business standing" . . . and when you keep a reasonable balance in your account in keeping with the checks you draw, they don't cost you anything.

We have said that Chesterfields are made right. The tobaccos are aged, then blended and cross-blended, and cut into

These things are done to make what people want—a cigarette that's milder, a cigarette that tastes better—a cigarette that satisfies.

You can prove what we tell you about Chesterfield. May we ask you to try them—that would seem to be fair enough.

CONGRESS FIGHT ON POWER SEEN

Administration Massing Resources Behind Movement

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—The Roosevelt administration is seeking to mass the resources of government behind a power offensive that may lead to an historic fight before congress.

On the one side are those who demand cheaper electric power and more drastic regulation; on the other are those who warn against government in business and declare that attacks on power companies are a danger to private industry and investors high and low.

Opposed in Cincinnati
While the White House made public a survey contending electricity users in northeastern states could save $194,000,000 in their power bill, one phase of the opposition to the administration's hydro-electric program, cropped out in Cincinnati.

Calling the Tennessee valley authority "the vision asinine," Appalachian Coals, Inc., began what it described as a nation-wide campaign of opposition to the hydro program. The organization, a marketing agency for nearly 80 per cent of the southern bituminous mine field, said coal furnishes cheaper electric power than water. It hit what it termed "TVA's excursion into the power business."

"When 'TVA' is said, 'finds itself' with a huge investment in power facilities and an enormous supply of electric power, it must, for its own salvation, develop and organize a power market not now existent."

Government Competition
"That means the promotion of government-subsidized industries in direct competition with existing private industries. This program has already started."

A summary of a bulky report made after a three-year survey in connection with the projected power development of the St. Lawrence by the New York state power authority was issued by the White House last night. The survey was made at the order of President Roosevelt when he was governor of the Empire state. The White House said the findings would "vitally affect 7,000,000 customers for electricity."

SEEN AS POWER IN NAZI DRIVE

Ex-Russian Originates Plan To Unify Teutons

of this intensive drive for the Third Reich.

Perhaps some of the Nazi philosopher's Brown Shirts internationalism springs from his ancestry. Born 41 years ago in Tallinn, Esthonia, when it was part of the czarist empire, he was a Russian citizen. His creed that espouses supremacy of the Teuton Aryan may seem a little strange, considering his birthplace. It may be well to remember that the Baltic states were settled hundreds of years ago by Teutonic knights who continued German long after Russian rule.

Rosenberg fought against Germany in the Russian army, but when the bolshevik revolution came in 1918, he sided with the White Russians. Later he fled to Germany.

His expansionist ideas soon found their way to Hitler's ear. And when the former Russian soldier suggested the idea of aryanism, Hitler decided to adopt it as a campaign slogan.

From Rosenberg, it is said, came the Nazi inspiration for a "holy war" against Christianity. The philosopher advocated a return to old German mythology, also from Rosenberg assertedly has come the interpretation that the Bible is the work of Jews, and therefore, ought to be denounced by all Nazi Germans.

On the political front, Rosenberg has pushed forward furiously. Nazi organizations have been set up throughout the world to disseminate Brown Shirt philosophy, and hundreds of millions of dollars have been expended in propaganda.

In the countries bordering Germany, all containing powerful German minorities, Nazi groups have been working hand-in-hand for a reunion with the Third Reich.

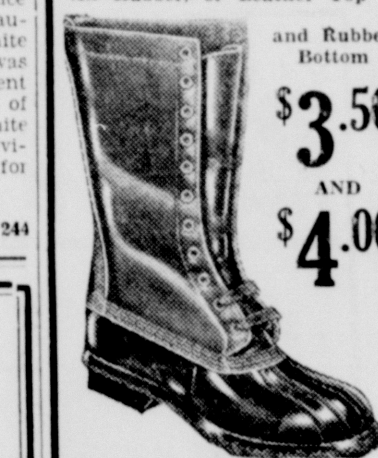

Over in England, when Dr. Rosenberg essayed to act as "unofficial" foreign minister in stilling English hostility to the Nazis, he was rebuffed so coldly that he decided he could be more effective by remaining in Berlin. Foreign observers declare that it is Rosenberg who is arranging an entente between militaristic Japan and Hitler for the supposed purpose of attacking Russia on two fronts. Back of the Rosenberg plan is a desire of Germany to win a generous slice of the Ukraine.

Amazingly New! Different! Coolerator

The Air Conditioned Refrigerator

FULL FAMILY SIZE Air Conditioned REFRIGERATOR COSTS ONLY $64.50

SO NEW, so startlingly different is Coolerator from any refrigerator you have ever known, that it changes all your ideas of dependable, economical home refrigeration.

Ice cubes in five minutes! No mingling of food odors! No more need to cover dishes! No more drying out of foods! All in a refrigerator that costs only 1/2 to 2/3 of what you'd expect to pay—a refrigerator that 65,500 women already herald as the greatest new advance in the whole field of refrigeration.

Coolerator differs from all other refrigerators because of its patented air conditioning chamber, which washes and humidifies the air and passes it through the food chamber several times each minute. This moist air does not rob food of its own moisture and flavor, but does absorb and carry away food odors.

Coolerator uses ice for its refrigerant, but in a different way than it has ever been used before. For example: one icing lasts from 4 to 7 days. Another: ice melts flat—from bottom of cake.

Prove these facts in your own home, with a free ten-day trial of one of the beautiful new 1935 Coolerators.

ICE CUBES IN FIVE MINUTES! And plenty of them—crystal-clear, taste-free—turned out at a moment's notice by clever, patented ice cube.

NO NEED TO COVER DISHES! Even butter won't pick up strange odors in Coolerator. Covering dishes or wrapping food is no longer necessary!

A JOY FOREVER! Beautiful Dulux finish withstands even hammer blows. This costly dress is worn by EVERY Coolerator model.

ACCEPT FREE 10-DAY TRIAL—We'll be glad to place in your home a new Coolerator model of your own choice. Try it for 10 days without cost or obligation.

JOHN TURLEY BOOTS AGAIN TO TALLY 84

Delaware Lad Leads Pack of Ohio Gridders In Score Honors

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, Nov. 13.—The home town lad who decided to stay in Delaware to play his football today continued to hold a decisive scoring margin over the rest of the pack in Ohio football.

John Turley, he, mates and his dancing feet scampered across an enemy's goal line once again last week and his golden toe angled the oval over the crossbars, three times for extra points, to boost his total for the season to 84.

In second place for scoring honors was Foster of Denison, with 48, and in third place was Goldsmith, of Baldwin-Wallace, with 44.

Turley now has nine touchdowns on his record. Foster has eight, Goldsmith six, and Jenkins, of Denison, in fourth place, has seven.

Turley has four field goals on his record. The nearest to that is Reavely, of Muskingum, who down the scoring list with 23 points, who booted two. Goldsmith has one, and Hinkel of Marietta, and Monahan of Ohio State each have one.

Holds 18 Extra Points
Turley has 18 points after touchdowns to his credit. The nearest to him in that department is Monahan who also is way down the total scoring list with 19 points, 16 of which were points after touchdown.

Five other players have five each, Goldsmith, Rothlisberger of Toledo, R. Zeh, of Western Reserve, Paul Thom of Case, and Reavely.

Boucher and Heekin of Ohio State lead the Ohio State squad in points scored, each with six thousand apiece, ranking among the first ten.

Boucher has scored 30 points in Big Ten competition, ranking second and just a point behind Jay Berwanger of Chicago.

Heekin is tied for third place in the Big Ten league with 24, and Damon Wetzel has 13, tied for fifth place.

On Turley's 84 points, 22 were scored in Buckeye Association games and he leads that loop as well as the general pack.

Foster's 48 points were scored in Ohio Conference games and he's at the top of that circuit.

Saturday Brought More
Counting last Saturday's games, 261 Ohio players had some sort of score to their credit.

Twenty-three players had scored 25 or more points. Below Jenkins they were Armbrust, Ohio U. and Llewellyn, Miami, 29 each; R. Talafner, Wooster, 27; Heekin, Boucher, Harper of Wooster, and Mohler of Ohio Wesleyan, 26 each; Rothlisberger of Toledo and R. Zeh, of Western Reserve, 25 each; Hinkel and Marietta, 23; Gant of Cincinnati, 22; Junius of Wilberforce, Whalen of Ohio Wesleyan, and back of Xavier, 21 each; Halby of Cincinnati, 20; L. Stet of Defiance, 19; and Trostler of Findlay, 18.

Burray of Ohio Northern and Tip Sallay of Western Reserve, 25 each.

Coast Football
May Go Off Air

(By Associated Press)
SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 13.—Pacific Coast Conference football may go off the air next season.

Objection to the broadcasting of games is reported to be increasing and the question will be re-opened at the annual meeting next month.

Opposition to the broadcasting already has been unofficially voiced by Stanford and California. Southern California is believed ready to line up on the side of the two big brother California universities.

Alfred R. Masters, graduate manager of Stanford, said he was convinced that broadcasting "is hurting and will continue to hurt our attendance."

Radio Hurting Colleges
"Something will have to be done in the matter," he added. "If not, no time may come when the colleges will be run out of the football business."

California's spokesman, Bill Monahan, expressed views in similar vein. He said he "knew Southern California was fed up on the matter."

An oil company paid $60,000 this season and last for the right to put 11 conference contests on the air. These spots were divided among 10 conference schools, according to the number of games handled at their importance.

Kipke Makes Few Changes In Line

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 13.—Pack Harry Kipke started his make-up of the Michigan varsity football team today by designating Aris Everhardus as varsity fullback and indicated that other reserve backs might draw varsity berths.

Aris is a brother of Herman Everhardus, backfield star who graduated last spring.

Everhardus was promoted as a result of his showing against Wisconsin Saturday when he gained 103 yards. Winfield Nelson, southpaw punter and passer, Dave Barnett, phenom halfback, and George Laas, quarterback, also may become regulars.

Bill Terry Is Playing Lone Hand In War On Writers

New York Giants' Manager Slowly Turning His Friends Into Enemies

By STUART CAMERON, United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—It is reasonable to presume that only the matter of time might interfere to prevent Bill Terry from succeeding in his quite obvious intention of alienating the affection of every one who has reason to string along with him, because he is a big shot, or a good ball player, or because he used to be a pretty nice guy.

A possibility has grown into a certainty that if he sticks around long enough even sweet old, poke-bonneted ladies from his native South will be yelling for his scalp.

"We Want Terry Club"
Old ladies from his native South so far have escaped his bite, but they stand alone, while over on the other side of the room, stretching on down the backstairs and through the streets in an unbroken line are the members of the "We Want Terry Club."

In this case, we want Terry is no demand for the hero's presence with the usual implied tribute. Rather, he is wanted for purposes of retaliation.

Terry's biting sarcasm and outspoken attacks have encompassed just about every one connected with baseball, including the Brooklyn fans.

Brooklyn's Revenge
The Brooklyn fans, however, got their measure of vengeance late last pennant rush when the Dodgers came roaring across the bridge to knock the Giants out of the World Series.

His next effort left him somewhat smaller than little in the eyes of baseball when he fell short of the measure of a sportsman in ducking the world series. Instead he might have beat down one of the harsh remarks by watching a game or two and going through the motions of being with the fortunate Cards.

But it is now that he is embroiled up to his eyebrows, for the baseball writers and "Sobbing Sophies," sometimes called girl reporters, are encamped behind every bush and stone for the winter, awaiting his appearance in the spring.

The best he can hope to get out of it is the worst of it, and it should be interesting to watch.

Assailed Newspapers
His ill-advised attack on the newspaper people who labor with him in the vineyards of baseball simply added a fresh supply of fat pitch Tennessee "lighter knots" to the conflagration.

In that gesture he made the direct, unqualified statement that he didn't give a second thought to the opinion of the sports writers, and as for the girl reporters he didn't believe them capable of writing a story on sports, therefore they sought only news on his private life which was nobody's business.

He then added naively that he was concerned only with the front office, and his whole team, excepting Mel Ott and Carl Hubbell, was for sale.

Creates Disloyalty
Naturally, that statement will create about the same loyalty among his players as he will get from the writers.

How do the fans feel about all this? The fickleness of fandom is well known. To try to put the finger on and lay for one direction or another the reactions of the sporting public might result in about the same success that would accompany penning a wild bull in a red cellophane stable.

However, the fans have their heroes among those players. They follow the gospel of certain of the baseball writers and they appreciate loyalty and sportsmanship.

How they will construe Terry's activities in recent months remains to be seen.

Want Princeton To Play Big Ten

(By Associated Press)
PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 13.—A movement started by four sophomores to have the Princeton eleven play either Minnesota or Pittsburgh in the post-season charity game was opposed today by the Daily Princetonian, the university's undergraduate newspaper.

The four sophomores circulated petitions on the campus yesterday and obtained 1,000 signatures of students who are desirous among other things to put to an end "propaganda that Princeton is afraid to play a first-class team."

Such a game, for the purpose of giving a crowd having little connection with other university affairs is repugnant, the Daily Princetonian declared.

Bars Profanity
EAST LANSING, Mich., Nov. 13.—Blasphemy is not allowed on the practice field at Michigan State college.

When one of the football candidates utters a profane oath, Coach Bachman reminds him that that sort of language is not permitted in the ranks of Spartan players.

If the player insists on continuing the use of profanity the coach warns him that unless he quits he does not belong on the State football roster.

Start Cage Drills
FAIRFIELD, Nov. 13.—Thirty-eight boys answered when Coach Schumaker sounded the basketball call here recently. Miss Deringer's call brought out 20 girl cagers.

Motorcycle Racing Planned for Miami

(By United Press)
MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 13.—British cycle racing, most thrilling of all motor sports, is one of the new attractions Florida will offer winter tourists this year.

The city commission has signed an agreement with Edward Otto, Jr., director of Motor Speedway, Inc., who has agreed to bring to Miami outstanding riders of Britain, Australia and Canada.

Motorcycle racing which started in Britain in 1930 has had a phenomenal growth. Sixty-two tracks have been built in the British Isles in the comparatively short lifetime of the sport.

Riders streak around the course on motors driven by castor oil and alcohol. They often attain speeds of 120 miles an hour.

WOOSTER NOW PREPARED FOR TITLE BATTLE

Scots Are Just a Step
Away From Ohio Conference Crown

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, Nov. 13.—Wooster's great football team is just a step away from an undisputed Ohio Conference crown. With six straight victories under its belt, the Wooster eleven needs only a victory over Ashland to clinch the crown.

The Ashland team has won one, lost three and tied one.

Ohio Northern failed to keep pace with the leaders last Saturday, the Polar Bears playing a scoreless tie with Bowling Green, while Wooster was running up a 21 to 7 victory over Akron. Northern's conference season is over, the Bears meeting Bluffton Friday in a non-league contest.

Narragansett Park at Pawtucket, R. I., closed its first year yesterday with an attendance of more than 56,000. Almost $800,000 was wagered on the last eight races.

WILMINGTON, Del.—Joe Savoldi, 209, Three Oaks, Mich., and Emil Dusek, 209, of Omaha, wrestled to a draw, Dusek taking the first fall in 28:11 and Savoldi the second in 8:42. Vic Christy, 208, Los Angeles, defeated Scotty McDougall, 215, Toronto, in 45 minutes.

Tom Alley, 208, Spokane, Wash., threw Tuffy Ruff, 220, of Georgia, in 15:26. Sun Jennings, 237, of Oklahoma, tossed Ed Meske, 215, of Akron, in 23:01.

Jockey Joe Burrill has ridden 39 winners and needs only one more victory and he will become a full-blooded jockey. Burrill is the most promising apprentice on display at Pimlico this fall. He just missed riding his fortieth winner when Tiempo and Manager Bill were beaten by a small margin.

A new protective device will be installed in the stables at Hialeah park, to prevent tampering with horses. The device, sponsored by Joseph E. Widener, is a door that has a combination lock and burglar alarm, which is set by the trainer, and which only he can unfasten and turn off. If anyone tries to enter the stall an alarm is sounded.

3 OF NATION'S LEADERS WILL PLAY IN EAST

Navy Faces Job of Stopping Powerful Pitt
Machine

By EDDIE BRIETZ
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Three of the country's six major unbeaten and untied football eleven will perform in eastern arenas this week and the hectic preparations in their respective training camps indicate the coaches fear the worst.

The best Navy team in years, with seven victories basking under its belt, is faced with the man's sized job of stopping a beaten, but none the less powerful Pitt machine if it is to continue in the race for national honors.

Syracuse, also riding with the pace setters, is sure of a miserable afternoon from Colgate's Red Raiders, coached by Andy Kerr, the little fellow with the big bag of tricks, and though Princeton is heavily backed by trim Yale, Coach Fritz Crisler is well aware that strange things sometimes happen in these big three games.

New Plays For Navy
Coach Jock Sutherland's Panthers, conquerors of Southern California and Notre Dame and beaten only by Minnesota's juggernaut, are expected to give the Middles their toughest afternoon of the season so far.

That Hamilton is running no chances with the Pittsburghers is seen in the announcement that he will flash an entirely new offense—formations, passes and running attack—on Pitt.

A somewhat similar situation holds in the Syracuse-Colgate scrap. The Orange, with six straight wins, must turn back a team rated one of the best in the country, if it is to continue to sit in the charmed circle.

Colgate, while beaten earlier in the season by Ohio State, has shown itself to be one of the smartest, trickiest outfits to play in the east all season.

A Yale win over Princeton would constitute an amazing upset however, Fritz Crisler expects the Blue to give him his hardest game of the year.

Midwest Undeclared
Two other undefeated teams will be in action in the middle west with Minnesota, generally regarded as the nation's No. 1 eleven, a heavy favorite over Chicago and Illinois, victorious over the crack Army machine, risking its chance for a Big Ten title against Wisconsin.

Alabama, also with a perfect record, and the south's outstanding contender for national honors, figures to keep its slate clean at the expense of Georgia Tech.

The Crimson tide is one off the three scorers among the more important eleven, with 213 points. Duquesne leads with 508. Princeton is second with 242.

Alabama and Navy are considered Rose Bowl possibilities, if they go through undefeated. Minnesota, Illinois and Princeton would be eligible, but the two former are barred by Big Ten rules against post-season games and Princeton has a similar agreement with Yale.

St. Mary's Loses 6-0
Armistice day games around the country yesterday contributed one major upset. Slip Madigan's powerful St. Mary's Gaels were bowled over 6-0 by the University of California at Los Angeles eleven.

Boston College beat Centre, 7-0 and Maryland's Terrapins turned back Virginia Military 23 to 0.

Bobcats Out to Win
But Ohio Wesleyan has no thought of losing to the Bearcats. The rampaging Bishops, with perhaps the best backfield combination in the Buckeye and also possessing a tight line, have yet to be halted by any team, having lost only to the undefeated Syracuse eleven, against whom they scored more points—10—than any other Syracuse opponent.

Furthermore, only one touchdown has been scored against Ohio Wesleyan by an Ohio team. Miami turning the trick in the Redskins' 10 to 6 loss to the Bishops, Marshall, of West Virginia, and Syracuse are the only other teams to have crossed the Bishops' goal.

Down in Cincinnati the Bearcat followers are pointing out that their team possesses an unusually strong defense which they are confident will stop the Bishops long enough to allow their own defense to function.

While Ohio Wesleyan and Cincinnati are struggling for the leadership, Miami will attempt to move into the strategic second-place position Saturday by defeating the last-place Marshall eleven at Huntington. The fifth conference member, Ohio, will play Dayton at Dayton.

The standings:

Teams	W.	L.	T.	Pts.
Ohio Wesleyan	2	0	0	1.000
Cincinnati	1	0	1	1.000
Miami	1	1	0	.500
Ohio	1	1	1	.500
Marshall	0	3	0	.000

St. Louis vs. Lions
CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—St. Louis, the newest representative in the National Professional football league, will meet Detroit's undefeated but somewhat shocked Lions Sunday, while the New York Giants will have another try at stopping the champion Chicago Bears, the circuit's other unbeaten outfit.

Special to The News.
The football championship of the Buckeye conference for 1934 will hinge Saturday upon the Ohio Wesleyan-Cincinnati game at Cincinnati.

A victory for the Battling Bishops will assure them of at least a tie for the title, while a Cincinnati win will prolong the championship decision until after the Ohio Wesleyan-Ohio and Cincinnati-Miami games on Nov. 24 and 25, respectively.

Cincinnati's chances to retain its title, which it now shares with Miami, suffered a setback as a result of the scoreless tie with Ohio University last Saturday at Athens. A similar scoreless tie between Ohio and Marshall robbed Ohio of a share in the championship last year.

Cincinnati, however, can win undisputed claim to the championship by beating both Ohio Wesleyan and Miami in its remaining games, for only the scoreless tie would blemish the Bearcats' conference record while every other team would have lost at least one game.

Bobcats Out to Win
But Ohio Wesleyan has no thought of losing to the Bearcats. The rampaging Bishops, with perhaps the best backfield combination in the Buckeye and also possessing a tight line, have yet to be halted by any team, having lost only to the undefeated Syracuse eleven, against whom they scored more points—10—than any other Syracuse opponent.

Furthermore, only one touchdown has been scored against Ohio Wesleyan by an Ohio team. Miami turning the trick in the Redskins' 10 to 6 loss to the Bishops, Marshall, of West Virginia, and Syracuse are the only other teams to have crossed the Bishops' goal.

Down in Cincinnati the Bearcat followers are pointing out that their team possesses an unusually strong defense which they are confident will stop the Bishops long enough to allow their own defense to function.

While Ohio Wesleyan and Cincinnati are struggling for the leadership, Miami will attempt to move into the strategic second-place position Saturday by defeating the last-place Marshall eleven at Huntington. The fifth conference member, Ohio, will play Dayton at Dayton.

The standings:

Teams	W.	L.	T.	Pts.
Ohio Wesleyan	2	0	0	1.000
Cincinnati	1	0	1	1.000
Miami	1	1	0	.500
Ohio	1	1	1	.500
Marshall	0	3	0	.000

St. Louis vs. Lions
CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—St. Louis, the newest representative in the National Professional football league, will meet Detroit's undefeated but somewhat shocked Lions Sunday,

Huey Long, Riding High In Louisiana Political Saddle, Turns Eyes to White House

Calls Legislature For Campaign Destined To Apply to the State, But Obviously To Influence the Nation

(By Associated Press)
BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 13.—Huey P. Long, riding high in the political saddle of Louisiana, has his eyes on the white house.

The dashing leader has summoned his chosen squadron, the legislature, to fall in line for a campaign destined to apply to the state but influence the nation. Having swept aside all opposition in Louisiana, Long is marching on broader fields.

The lawmakers have been called into special session to turn Louisiana into a "Utopia" for the average man. That the senator reasons will sway armies of voters.

Urges Debt Moratorium
Chief among his measures will be a moratorium of debt. He feels that debt is the problem of every average American and any ease in that direction would make a host of Long boosters.

He hopes to make Louisiana pointed to as Utopia for the average man.
But Louisiana would be only a laboratory for national experiments as Long is ambitious. He feels that he is of presidential caliber and that a call will come from the average citizen for him to be their national leader.

He has demonstrated his influence in Arkansas and Mississippi, where he has supported successful candidates, and he boasts that he could be elected governor of any state in the union. If he can carry influence in two neighboring states, he feels he can carry influence in all 48 states. He is ready for the test when he thinks his moment has arrived. He believes that the time will come soon when people will tire of the Rooseveltian new deal.

The "Kingfish" plans to make possible a two-year debt moratorium for "survivors of the depression." The idea fits in with his "share-the-wealth" doctrine.

Sets a Limit
"What about the student loans at $7 a head?" Long was asked in connection with the money which he advanced to hundreds of Louisiana State university students so they could attend a football game. Long chuckled as he replied:

"I'm glad you brought that up. We're going to fix it so the moratorium won't apply to debts under $8."

At the moment, Huey Long is the government of Louisiana. He eliminates every department of the state and has demonstrated that in an election he is unbeatable. His legislature will pass any law he proposes.

In promoting himself, he goes on the theory that it is necessary to give the people something. In Louisiana he has built paved roads, free bridges, furnished free text books and supplied other things which sound good from the stump. He drowns out his foes' arguments on graft and corruption in his government.

Impervious to Charges
From now on his every move will be with the idea of clearing a path for the white house. His opponents ridicule the idea, charging Long with being a buffoon and a clown, but these charges bounce off Long like bird shot from an elephant's hide. He drives on seriously.

Long is running for the presidency in face of a federal grand jury investigation into his income taxes, a grand jury that already has indicted some of his political associates. He is running in face of a $500,000 libel suit instituted by Gen. Samuel T. Ansell, charging him with weighing on a challenge issued on the senate floor, and in the face of hostility from the na-

Today

A Review of the Day's News
By Arthur Brisbane

AT THE LAST election this happened. Among other things, Nebraska, at the suggestion of Senator George W. Norris, wiped out its state senate, with thirty-three members, and its state house of representatives, with one hundred members, substituting for both a single body, "unicameral" legislature, one single house of fifty members.

Consolidating two legislative bodies into one and lopping off the public payrolls eighty-three from a total of 123 is a good step in the direction of reducing the national, state, city and county payroll armies of tax-devouring officials.

LAST SATURDAY, Germany celebrated the birthday of two men born on the same day of the year, but far apart in time and character. They were Martin Luther, born November 10, 1483, and Johann Christoph Friedrich von Schiller, born November 10, 1759.

In honor of Schiller, the name of the University of Jena, where Schiller once held a professorship, thanks to Goethe's friendship, was changed to Friedrich Schiller university.

Hitler presided at the Schiller memorial exercises.
MARTIN LUTHER, a powerful man, believed what things he said, including the fact that the devil, with horns and cloven feet, visited him. They still show him, in Luther's house, the spot made on the wall when Luther threw his inkstand at the devil.

Luther, also, not much to his credit, sided with the ruling classes when the miserable peasants in despair rose against the ruling aristocratic class. Instead of sympathizing with the unhappy, he urged the aristocrats to suppress the peasants with all violence. This they did, and the miserable creatures were again yoked in their misery.

SCHILLER LEFT religion to those that understood it and devoted himself to the production of noble poems and plays, Wilhelm Tell, Wallenstein, and others.

It is not difficult to guess which of the two will live longer in history. Schiller will be honored as a great poet, beside his contemporary, Goethe, when interest in Martin Luther's name will be found in religious historical books.

Many religious reformers have lived since Homer wrote. They are forgotten. He is not.

SEEKING to put money in circulation, President Roosevelt plans a central banking system, with intermediate banks "to pump two thousand millions of dollars into the bank accounts of small business men." The idea is to counteract, if possible, the present banking "mania for liquidity."

How the small business men will repay the two thousand millions, unless the general public has money to buy what the small business men have to sell, is not stated.

Those interested in the money problem, even the President and Secretary Morgenthau, might read the "Economic Plan of Maj. C. H. Douglas."

They will find an excellent outline of it in "The A. B. C. of Social Credit," by E. S. Holtzer, published by the Coward Mac-Mann company. Business men interested in economic problems and money are advised to get that book and read it.

THIS IS BOOK WEEK IN U. S.

"Hobbies" Are to be Emphasized In Book Show Displays

November 11 to 17, "Book Week," annually observed since 1919, is this year emphasizing "Hobbies."

Hobbyhorse book shows for young people are to be held in book stores, public libraries, and schools throughout the country during the week. There has been a great deal of discussion recently of hobbies for grown ups and ways to enjoy new hours of leisure, but children's hobbies have had less attention. The younger generation, however, has as varied a choice in hobbies as adults have, and these Book Week displays will include surprises for grown-ups who are just discovering the delights of following up an avocational interest.

Modern educational methods, with their emphasis on wide reading and individual expression, have broadened the range of children's interests. Boys and girls today have a marvelous curiosity, a desire to learn as much as possible about the subjects that interest them.

The Book Week exhibits will include the informational books which supply the young hobby rider with the basic material, things to do, see and learn and will also include the books which carry him off, or perhaps from his first interest in ship model building to stirring tales of the sea and into the fascinating byways of the history of navigation, or from simple instructions on basket weaving to books about Indian art which will continue as a major interest through his whole life.

Shank's Attorney Will File a New Insanity Appeal

(By Associated Press)

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 13.—A new attempt to show that Mark Shank, Akron attorney who has been sentenced to death, is insane is being made here.

W. T. Pate Jr., attorney for the condemned Akron lawyer, said he will file a new appeal for a sanity hearing and attempt to show by verbal testimony that Shank became insane following his conviction last year.

Pate said he would not appeal the supreme court decision which refused a mandamus asking for a sanity hearing. Shank was convicted of the poison murder of Alvin Colley.

Colley, his wife and two children died from the effects of poisoned grape juice which they drank while on a picnic in Saline county last summer. The court's order of death will be sent to the governor Friday unless an appeal is made before 5 p. m. Thursday.

The governor then will set the execution date.

Grading Is Halted At Rogers Airport

LISBON, Nov. 13.—Common pleas court today granted a temporary restraining order, stopping grading work at the Rogers airport as the result of a petition filed by Edna B. Swaney against the village of Rogers, claiming that work at the airport being done under FERA, has caused destruction of soil and that valuable timber has been cut and destroyed on land adjoining the property. The petition also claims shale has been dumped on fertile land and that terms of the airport lease have been violated.

The petition asks that service be restored save grading. Wants further grading stopped except at the plaintiff's consent. Bond of $100 was asked by the court in granting the order.

Defendants in the petition were named as E. A. Williams, county PWA manager; Lloyd McIntyre, in charge of labor, and the Cable Co. of Canton, contractors who have the job for improvement of the airport in Madison township. The land tract of 163.74 acres was leased to Rogers for airport and parking space for five years.

Ketti Gallian Makes Debut In "Marie Galante" At State Tonight

FOR those who seek thrills in motion pictures and a warning, human story as well, "Marie Galante," a recent production at the State this evening and Wednesday, is recommended. Spencer Tracy and Ketti Gallian, a newcomer to American films but a well-known figure in England, enact the leading roles.

Others in the cast are Ned Sparks, Helen Morgan, Siegfried Rumann, Stepin Fetchit, Leslie Fenton and Arthur Byron.

New Star

Miss Gallian, exotic importation from the European stage, makes an impressive debut in her first American picture. She is an entirely different type of actress and speaks with a decided French accent—she was born and educated on the French Riviera and at the age of 17 went to Paris to become a mannequin for a famous couturiere. As the wastrel Marie Galante, lost far from her homeland in a maze of international intrigue, always seeking a way to return to her beloved France from which she has been torn, Miss Gallian creates a charming, touching figure. The picture took over a year to make, film executives spending considerable time in searching for the right type for the lovely Marie, and the French actress is a lucky choice.

Spencer Tracy gives another forceful performance as the American who at first tracks Marie down as a suspect, then comes to her defense when he hears her tragic story. Together these two weave a spell of authentic romance to which is added the glamour of the story's setting—the fabulous and vivid life of the Canal Zone, with its mysteries, its loves and its hates.

The Story

Briefly, the story concerns one Marie Galante, who goes happily about her job of delivering telegrams in a little French seaport town. She delivers a telegram to the captain of the "Hetty King" and finds him drunkenly lolling over a highball at a sidewalk cafe. He persuades her to come along with him to the Canal Zone, where she is far out to sea, thousands of miles from her home. She escapes from the boat and finds some way to return home. She obtains a job in the night club owned by Ned Sparks, which, frequented by spies, government officials and rowdies.

It is here she meets Tracy who wants to help her and who sees chance of using the girl as a spy. She is believed to be a spy and is about to be imprisoned. Tracy convinces the government that she is a victim of circumstance. When their troubles are straightened out to suit them, the girl and Tracy decide they can't do without each other.

CINCINNATI, O.—Roy Bagley, boiler-maker, wasn't trying to make news, it was just in fun that he nipped the ear of his pet dog.

The pup misunderstood and sent it. They treated the boiler-maker at the hospital for a dog-bite.
